SCHOOL EVENTS

This week year 8, 9, 10 and 12 had the fantastic opportunity to work with the highly respected and successful theatre company 'Splendid Productions'.

Splendid Productions is a theatre company and an education company. They create challenging, vibrant theatre for young people, and they provide expert training in all areas of drama from practitioner theory to presentation skills. Splendid are creative adaptors, they take old stories and spin them into new thought provoking, theatrical, inclusive, political, anti-4th wall, heart exposing versions. As storytellers they are interested in the universal human experience and specifically what will engage and provoke a young audience. They also want to give a voice to those characters that have been neglected, stereotyped or written out of the original version.

Stylistically they make work that could only possibly exist in a theatre; the work is spirited, visual, interactive, theatrical, precise and honest. They use chorus to guide the audience through the story they are telling. Their aim is to raise questions, highlight contradictions in the characters, the story, society, and aim to provoke debate within the audience long after they have gone.

The workshops guided the students to create their own pieces of challenging theatre along with discussions about her work as a professional actor, running a theatre company and touring schools. There were also opportunities for students interested in the industry to ask questions.

It was an invaluable experience for the students and they left the room buzzing with energy!
